

On March 11th, at 2:46pm, Japan was struck with a 9.0-magnitude megathrust earthquake that occurred off the northeast coast.

Farmland that produced rice, vegetables, fruit, as well as the coastal areas abundant with seafood have been destroyed by the ensuing tsunami waves, not to mention all the tranquil towns and villages and the beautiful countryside of the Tohoku area.

Aftershocks, fires, and now radiation is what the population has to deal with. The more we hear and see on the news of the grim reality in Japan is shocking and sad.

For those of us who are away from Japan, instead of just feeling sorry and sad, why don't we try to pitch in our efforts and help manifest a beautiful, and healthy Japan?

The Japanese expatriates in Hong Kong are setting up a charity donation collection for rebuilding Japan.

Please contribute and put one of our donation boxes at your office or shop. Keep it up, Japan!

For more information on contribution boxes and donations, please email gambare.j@gmail.com

For the latest information, please go to our blog <http://gambarejapan.blogspot.com/>